Title:

Programming and Operations Intern

Description:

If you are wondering what working in the outdoor recreation field looks like as a career, this is the internship for you. Our program & operations interns are some of our most essential staff each year, routinely completing critical operations and making sure trips continue to run safely and on time. They get to experience a bit of everything, spending about 50% of their time providing support to warehouse, kitchen, and trail operations and the other 50% developing and implementing a program or operations based project. This mixture gives interns a nice balance of learning the operational systems of the outdoor recreation industry, as well as having the leadership opportunity to develop a project of their own. Some previous intern driven projects have included: rebuilding Wilderness Inquiry's adaptive gear, updating our educational interpretation kits, and planting and maintaining a wildflower boulevard garden.
