POSITION INFORMATION

Employer Saint Paul Interfaith Network

Division N/A

Title Internship Opportunity - Summer 2017

Description Saint Paul Interfaith Network (SPIN) and Twin Cities Interfaith Network (TCIN)

SPIN and TCIN overlap in networking interfaith groups, resources and leaders that conduct various interfaith efforts including education, encounter, and dialogue across religious traditions; advocacy related to social justice; and social services. TCIN is a network that provides opportunities for interfaith organizations/groups to meet, build relationships, learn together and form partnerships for a variety of efforts. SPIN seeks to provide resources so that religious congregations/communities can learn about each other, build relationships and find ways to partner in efforts for the common good. Both organizations are primarily volunteer led, under the fiscal sponsorship of other 501(c)3 organizations and considering and renewing their future visions, missions and modes of operation. TCIN conducts monthly peer meetings of interfaith organizations leaders/staff/volunteers, and occasionally hosts meetings on special topics and/or for religious leaders. SPIN serves as a speakers bureau, assists congregations and other groups to conduct interfaith education/dialogue events, conducts two regular monthly public interfaith dialogue events, supports an initiative to bring understanding and healing between Native American and others (including offering Sacred Sites tours), and offers interfaith leadership training for religious leaders/volunteers.

Compensation: (site unable to provide)

Supervisor: Thomas Duke, Ph.D.; Coordinator of SPIN, member of TCIN executive committee

Description: SPIN and TCIN seek to better understand and utilize the network of interfaith organizations, leaders, and volunteers, so as to foster efficiency, effectiveness and deeper relationships of understanding, respect and cooperation across religious traditions. To assist in this process we seek an intern to conduct a network mapping process utilizing tools available through network mapping websites and resource persons in the Twin Cities area.
