NOTE: Beginning in fall 2010, federal guidelines for reporting student race/ethnicity were changed such that Hispanic students are counted as Hispanic, regardless of any race identifications they make. Non-Hispanic students who identify with more than one race are counted in the two or more races category. International students are reported separately from domestic students as they are not asked to self-identify with a U.S.-based racial/ethnic identity.

*Starting fall 2017, students are able to self-report an Institutional Gender that differs from their legal sex. Institutional Gender is reported here.
Starting fall 2024, students are able to self-report additional institutionally recognized genders, including Non-binary, Genderfluid/Genderqueer, and X. Those three self-identification options are grouped together here under the historically used label 'Nonbinary.'
