

Samuel Clarke's Morean Space and Time Absolutism

Emily Thomas

April 11, 2016

Noon

Old Main 4th Floor

Light lunch served

Emily Thomas is a professor at the University of Groningen, who recieved her PhD at the University of Cambridge. My research primarily concerns time and space in the history of metaphysics. I am also interested in a broad range of issues that connect with these primary concerns, including idealism, substance, personal identity over time, ontological dependence, monism, categories, emergentism, and metaphysical philosophy of religion.