

Philosophy Colloquium Presents:

The Tension Between the Nature and the Norm of Voluntary Exchange

4:30 pm ~ April 7, 2016

Harmon Room

Refreshments will be served.

Thomas Christiano is a philosopher at the University of Arizona, who received his PhD in philosophy from the University of Chicago, Illinois. He writes books and articles on moral and political philosophy and regularly teaches both graduate and undergraduate courses. Christiano's current research is mainly in moral and political philosophy with emphases on democratic theory, distributive justice and global justice.